ABSTRACT

The research GRoup in InterAction and eLearning (GRIAL) is a Recognized Research Group of the University of Salamanca and, currently, a Consolidated Research Unit by the Regional Council of Castile and León. Its biggest defining characteristic is that it is a multidisciplinary research group which arise around the creation and application of educational technology; therefore, it is composed fundamentally by computer engineers and educationalists, but it also includes humanists, biotechnologists, philosophers, philologists among other professional profiles. This report aims to present the research group's most outstanding scientific production in the 2011-2017 time interval, but previously, the research group's history and evolution will be contextualized, as well as its current composition and its research areas. This report also includes information about the proper use of the group's corporate image.

1. Introduction

The research GRoup in InterAction and eLearning (GRIAL, <https://grial.usal.es>) was constituted in March 2006 as a Recognized Research Group of the University of Salamanca and after a year, it received the Recognized Group of Excellence mention by the Regional Council of Castile and León (GR-47) [1]. In 2015, with the Regional Council of Castile and León's change of strategy regarding research groups, excellence research groups disappeared to conform the so-called Consolidated Research Units (UIC, in its Spanish acronym). The GRIAL Group was postulated, obtaining the Consolidated Research Unit mention in July 2015, with the UIC-081 reference. These units must be renewed every 3 years, hence, in February 2018, GRIAL has requested the renewal of its UIC mention, which is expected to be obtained as the group widely fulfills the minimum criteria required.

The GRIAL Group was created in 2006 as an initiative and a personal quest of Dr. D. Francisco José García Peñalvo, head of the group until the present day, with the goal of pursuing research lines related to the development and use of educational and learning technologies. Given the relationship with other researchers from other areas, because of its membership to the Research Institute for Educational Sciences¹, the group was born with a clear multidisciplinary nature, combining fundamentally Computer Engineering and Education, but also accompanied by researchers from other disciplinary fields (Philosophy, Philology, Humanities, etc.), providing one of the identity signs of the group, to which researchers with many different profiles are still joining, enriching it and allowing the evolution of its research lines. At this initial moment, the group was fortunate to count on the support and the academic guidance from two major figures from the University of Salamanca. On the one hand, Dr. D. Joaquín García Carrasco, Professor of Theory and History of Education at the University of Salamanca (now retired, but not from academic life and collaboration with the group), from whom the taste and commitment for scientific mixing is inherited, leaving alongside personal egos in the interest of a collective and collaborative growing [2]. On the other hand, Dr. D. Antonio López Eire, Professor of Greek Philology, maybe one of the greatest Spanish Hellenists and an internationally recognized personality, who led the Communication Theory research line, which was crucial in the GRIAL group's conception about eLearning [3-8], until he lost his life, unfortunately, in a traffic accident in 2008 [9].

On this basis, a subgroup of GRIAL, along with other group's collaborators, achieved the Group of Excellence mention by the Regional Council of Castile and León in November 2007, regulated by the Order EDU/1623/2006 [10], and in July 2008, the project eLearning sin barreras: Nuevos paradigmas de comunicación, servicios y modalidades de interacción para la formación en línea [11] was obtained. Among the researchers that joined GRIAL for this Excellence group section are Dra. Dña. M^a Cruz Sánchez Gómez, from the Area of Knowledge of Research and Diagnosis Methods in Education, who will join definitely GRIAL on an individual basis shortly thereafter, and Dra. Dña. M^a José Rodríguez Conde, Professor of the Area of Knowledge of Research and Diagnosis Methods in Education, and now head of the Research Institute for Educational Sciences, who at that time managed the Educational Evaluation and Guidance Group (GE20). The high levels of collaboration and synergy between the GRIAL and GE20 groups lead to their fusion in 2010 under the name of GRIAL, initiating a structuration of subgroups within GRIAL.

The next significant milestone in the GRIAL Group's evolution comes from the change of strategy of the Regional Council of Castile and León Government regarding their Excellence Groups recognized by the Order EDU/1623/2006 [10]. These groups would maintain their condition until February 29th, 2016, but the Order EDU/1623/2006 was repealed in December 2014 by the Order EDU/1006/2014 [12], regulating the Consolidated Research Units (UIC from the Spanish Unidades de Investigación Consolidadas) of the Regional Council of Castile and León.

These units aim to be more competitive gathering researchers who, having a common demonstrable trajectory, meet important requirements regarding recognition, production and funding, so they can only be composed by experienced researchers, showing an implicit message about merging efforts of related groups to create more powerful research macro structures.

The GRIAL Group decided to apply for the UIC recognition because of the policy change and its Excellence Group condition, and also because on the date of calling and being selected a subset of its most recognized members on the basis of six-year research periods, it met the required criteria to obtain the aforementioned recognition. However, given the fact that there are other recognized research groups working closely with GRIAL in the Research Institute for Educational Sciences context that request joining the UIC proposal led by GRIAL, new members from these groups are incorporated to the UIC application. At this moment join the group Dra. Dña. Ana García-Valcárcel Muñoz-Repiso, Professor of the Area of Knowledge of Didactic and School Organization and Head of the recognized group GITE (Research Group of Innovation in Educational Technology, in English), which has, in turn, the Recognized Group of Excellence mention by the Regional Council of Castile and León (GR213), Dr. Juan Antonio Juanes Méndez, Senior Lecturer of the Area of Knowledge of Human Anatomy and Embryology and Head of the recognized group VISUALMED and Dr. Roberto Therón Sánchez, Senior Lecturer of the Area of Knowledge of Computer Science and Artificial Intelligence and Head of the Research Unit VisUsal.

The grant of the UIC mention to the GRIAL group (UIC 081) in July 2015 overlaps with a regulatory change in the Recognized Research Groups of the University of Salamanca [13], for which the members of a UIC must belong to the same Recognized Research Groups of the University. This makes some researchers that supported the UIC determine to not to continue within the Unit in order to avoid losing their identity as a Recognized Research Group, other researchers (as in the case of the GITE Group) became integrated in GRIAL and the rest of researchers remained in a situation of no resolved uncertainty as in the case of VISUALMED, which maintained its Recognized Research Group identity and its director, Dr. Juanes Méndez, remained a member of the UIC 081 for Regional Council of Castile and León.

The renovation of the UIC 081 has been requested in February 2018, given the fact that it has been 3 years since its grant and it is a mandatory procedure if the group wants to maintain the aforementioned recognition. Taking advance of this renovation, it has been requested the removal of recently retired researchers, like Dr. D. Francisco Javier Tejedor, Professor of the Area of Knowledge of Research and Diagnosis Methods in Education (shall these words serve as an appreciation for his contributions to the Group, the University of Salamanca and the Scientific Community in general), or members that want to explore the creation of its own UIC in the near future; moreover, researchers that have enough recognition to contribute to the required criteria regarding recognized six-year research periods in the UIC have been registered. Being consulted the new University of Salamanca governing team about the policy and regulation of the Recognized Research Group in the internal context of this University, they have expressed their intention to modify the current regulation in order to decouple the composition of the UIC from the composition of Recognized Research Groups. Once the confirmation of the regulatory change is made, the GRIAL's subgroup GITE will request again the recovery of their own identity as a Recognized Research Group, even though the close relation between both groups will be maintained, and members of the GITE Group will remain as part of the GRIAL UIC.

The main goal of this document is to become a reference that will evolve through time and to summarize the structure, research lines and the main scientific production of the group in the last 7 years (2011-2017). For that purpose, the formal mechanism employed is the GRIAL Technical Reports Series, with the goal of address these reports in a more systematic manner than the previous attempts [1, 14], and with the purpose of checking them periodically in order to update its contents.

2. Structure and composition of the GRIAL Research Group

Given the history and evolution of the GRIAL Research Group, the group counts on a high number of researchers and partners (64 members, 29 men and 34 women)². For this reason, the group has an organization based on subgroups so that, aiming to the same goal and working together in interdisciplinary projects, people can see its trajectory recognized finding their identity and context to also develop research activities both basic and applied to their own disciplinary field. This structure is alive and it will evolve according to the situation of the group's members.

Currently, as it can be appreciated in Figure 1, the GRIAL Group is composed by four main subgroups (GRIAL, GE20, GITE and VisUsal), which represent the different integrations of Recognized Research Group and Research Units in the GRIAL group. Within the GRIAL subgroup, a group of partners in online mentoring is maintained, more related to the development of teaching activities in eLearning format than in research tasks. Transversally and affecting the subgroups' members (not all of them) there is the Consolidated Research Unit UIC 081.

This organization aims to collaborate together while maintaining the particular identity of every subgroup. In fact, every subgroup has a director or responsible, the GE20 subgroup is headed by Dra. Rodríguez Conde, the GITE subgroup by Dra. García-Valcárcel and the VisUsal subgroup by Dr. Therón Sánchez. On the other hand, the direction of the whole Group, the GRIAL subgroup and the UIC 081 rests in Dr. García-Peñalvo.

² For the purpose of this document the formal differences between researchers and partners of the research group are not taking into account, because it is a specific concept of the internal regulation and this document aims to spread the real work and contributions to the group.

In the Figure 16 the temporal distribution of the research contracts alive during the reference period can be seen. In the Figure 17 is presented the number of research contracts and the budget in which by every principal investigator of the GRIAL Group has achieved, while in the Figure 15 it can be appreciated how every principal investigator's achieved number of contracts contribute in percentage to the total of research contracts.

The GRIAL Group is a multidisciplinary group with members that come, fundamentally, from the Engineering and Social Sciences fields. That is why the publications reflect the idiosyncrasy of both disciplines. In this section the achieved publications by the group in the 2011-2017 period are going to be presented, only taking into account the journals indexed on the Journal Citation Report of Web of Science (WoS), on Scopus and on the Emerging Sources Citation Index of WoS.

Indexed publications on the JCR of WoS

The indexed publications on the JCR of WoS by the GRIAL Group, between 2011 and 2017 (pending publications with online access and an associated DOI are going to be included) are going to be organized by quartiles, and within each quartile by year, being pending publications placed in 2018. In this reference period, the GRIAL Group has published 120 papers on 46 journals (see Figure 19) indexed on the JCR of WoS (36 Q1; 18 Q2; 31 Q3; 35 Q4 – see Figure 20).
